

Teaching Staff:

Gloria Riley is an experienced and accomplished educator, with advanced degrees in Math, as well as Fine Arts. A veteran of AIEA's summer program, Ms. Riley's kind, caring, supportive and encouraging approach made her a favorite with students in the past. Ms. Riley excels at creating hands-on projects that are tailored to the needs of individual students. This customized approach to students, as well as personalized extra help and assistance with homework, convinces students of her care and commitment. Ms. Riley lives in Boston, and works at a private secondary school in the city of Boston.

Katie Rebholz is a Speech and Debate teacher at a private high school in the city of Boston. Katie holds a law degree from the University of Vermont, and has worked for a federal judge in New Jersey. Katie's considerable strengths include a passion for knowledge and belief in each student she mentors. Katie helps students develop their own ideas and arguments, and her expert coaching enables students to meet their potential. Her passionate enthusiasm for current events informs her students, and helps make them better citizens.

Benjamin Blank holds a Bachelor's Degree from the University of Maryland, and law degree from the University of Vermont. Ben also completed a dual-degree program, which enabled him to earn a Master's Degree in Environmental Studies. Ben has spent numerous summers working with youths in summer programs on the East Coast and in California. As Activity Director, Ben will develop positive, safe and healthy afternoon activities. With his commitment to the environment and "sustainable" living, Ben will help students become good stewards of the Earth.
